UNION TWP., Pa. -

State Police said they were at Daniel Boone High School again on Thursday, simply as a precaution.

They said district security searched students' backpacks at the start of the school day.

Two racial slurs were found written on a bathroom wall at the school on Wednesday, official said. They also said a knife was found in a student's locker. There's no word if the incidents were related.

Nothing was found during this morning's search, state police said.
